

Update from All Saints'

Email to the Parish from The Rev. Simone Hurkmans

June 19, 2020

Happy Friday everyone!

Are you staying cool? This week has really felt like summer, hasn't it? Today is the last day of school for our girls (in the French board) and many of you are surely counting down the days to the last day of school next week for the English boards. What a strange way to end the school year! In addition to the first official day of summer being right around the corner, we also look forward to celebrating Father's Day this Sunday. For those of you who may have forgotten, there is still time for that last minute trip to the LCBO... :)

Our third instalment of our Summer Sunday School is now up on the parish's Facebook page. This week, Barbara talks to us about Cups - not just vessels for holding water, but also symbols of nourishment and service. Check out her message and fun craft here:

<https://www.facebook.com/allsaintswestboro/posts/3343161692383994>

Take care,

Simone+